Water Indonesia 2024

Water and wastewater treatment is an important issue in Indonesia. Indonesia's water resources accounts for 6% of the world's and 21% of Asia-Pacific's. And yet 68% of rivers in Indonesia are heavily polluted. Of those, 70% are polluted by domestic waste, according to the Indonesian National Planning Agency. The total water availability in Indonesia is 690 × 109 cubic meters (m³) per year, which is a lot more than the demand of 175 × 109 m³ /year.

Water Indonesia 2024 will be held alongside Electric & Power Indonesia, the largest show of its kind in Indonesia. The water used for coal production is heavily polluted, and the total water consumption for the industry will reach 3,461 MCM by 2021 and this amount would increase by 10% per year until 2023. This situation imposes a greater need to improve the Mining Industry water supply and waste treatment systems. As for Indonesia Construction Industry, water supplies and waste treatments have been a growing concern since these two subjects are required in the production process for many materials such as concrete and steel. At the moment huge number of construction projects are undergoing in the country which without doubt will lead to huge demand of water supplies and waste treatment management.
